Face the Facts

Ten aesthetician-recommended tips
Californians can use to improve their skin

Getting to know someone's skin is like reading a book," says Beverly Hills aesthetician Francesca Paige. "Our bodies can relay fantastic stories." As she tells it, our whole body ages at the same time, so it's important to include all body parts when discussing skincare. Here, Paige's 10 catch-all tips: 1. Wash your face twice before bed. If there's makeup on your towel, there's makeup on your face. 2. Sleep. 3. See your dermatologist for a full body check once a year. 4. Reevaluate your skincare products every few months to make any necessary seasonal changes. 5. Don't forget to put sunscreen on your neck, chest and back of hands, daily. 6. Clean out your medicine cabinet yearly. 7. Less is more. Too much product can lead to challenges with your skin and waste of product. 8. If you smoke: Stop it! 9. Supplements and good nutrition are important for nourishing and hydrating the skin. 10. Do one thing each week for your skin: mask, enzyme, AHA peel, LED treatment, oxygen, even just placing cool tea bags on your eyes. 9735 Wilshire Blvd., Ste. 327, B.H., 310-860-0898; francescapaigeskin.com. A Sage Scent

The new body collection from a
Swedish fragrance house

To complement his modern scents and candles, Ben Gorham, the fragrance designer behind Byredo Parfums, recently introduced a line of body products, including a soap set, lotion and wash in four different scents. Green, a fresh composition including sage, almond and musk, is the stand-out and already a hit with California girls and Byredo fans Erin Wasson and Olivia Wilde. *Barneys New York; byredo.com. Brentwood's San Vicente is becoming a one-stop beauty destination

Two beauty mavericks set up shop on San Vicente Boulevard—and haven't looked back. From a mobile in-home blow-dry business, co-founder Alli Webb's blowout-only salon, DryBar, was born. At only $35 a pop, reservations are necessary. Then there's Lina Kennedy, president of Studio Alexandria LA, who's revolutionizing hair removal with her "sugaring" technique. The process is a lot like waxing, though the all-natural sugar paste is said to remove hair of almost all lengths, condition the skin, last longer and cause hair to grow back thinner. Both have plans to open additional L.A. locations. *DryBar, 11677 San Vicente Blvd., L.A., 310-442-6084; thedrybar.com.
